

PROFILE – Edmond Sum, BSME

Edmond Sum has 17 years experience of working with multi-national corporations in the field of building technologies, both in the United States and China. He graduated from Drexel University, Philadelphia, USA with a BS degree in Mechanical Engineering.

After graduating, Edmond spent 6 years in the US with Honeywell International, as a development engineer. In 1997, Edmond joined the Honeywell Building Solutions Team in Shanghai, China, where he performed a number of roles including Project Manager, Regional Quality Manager and Six Sigma Black Belt, culminating as Operations Director for China. Edmond left Honeywell to join the Schindler Group as General Manger of Central China for the Elevator and Escalators business, where he had full P&L responsibility including revenues exceeding 80 million US dollars.

Edmond joined Johnson Controls Global WorkPlace Solutions business in 2007, as Regional Executive for Greater China and the Philippines, directing a property portfolio comprising of over 15 million square feet of commercial real estate. Edmond also leads its Industrial/Commercial Customer Business Group, with specific responsibility for key clients such as Intel, Motorola and Microsoft across the Asia region. Edmond is based in Beijing, and is responsible for 1600 employees in Asia.

